POLICY ISSUE

Should the Village Board approve the list of election officials for 2012-2013?

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Every December in odd-numbered years, the Village Board approves a list of election officials to staff the polls during elections. This year's appointment of election workers has a different twist. For the first time in Howard that anyone can remember, the two major political parties are exercising their statutory right to nominate election workers. According to State Statute, by no later than November 30, 2011, the two major political parties whose candidates for governor or president at the last general election received the largest number of votes at an individual polling place (generally, the Democratic and Republican parties) may submit a certified list of election inspector nominees to the municipal governing body.

When lists of election inspector nominees are submitted to a municipal governing body, appointments must be made from the lists submitted by the parties for as long as election inspector positions are available and the individuals are capable of carrying out the duties. If party lists have been timely received, positions must be filled from the lists until the names on those lists have been depleted. Nominees must be qualified electors of the wards in which they serve.

The Village did receive a list of 19 names from the Democratic Party and 4 names from the Republican Party. Many of the people on these lists have served as election workers in the past. Three of the regular poll workers who were submitted this year by the Democratic Party have asked to be unaffiliated with the party and remain on the list as an unaffiliated appointment. Therefore, 16 names on the appointment list are those from the Democratic Party, 4 have been appointed by the Republican Party, and the remainder are unaffiliated.

Since not enough people were nominated from the two parties to fill all of the openings, the highest elected official in the municipality is obligated to nominate enough additional officials to fill the remaining positions. The list of those nominated indicates if they are nominated by a political party or if they are unaffiliated.
